Transformational Keynote Speaker

Rebecca Shambaugh is a highly-sought- after and recognized speaker, leadership expert, and author. Rebecca is a leadership expert on building inclusive and high-performance cultures. She speaks at major conferences and to executives on how to disrupt traditional mindsets and create an inspiring vision and roadmap for driving greater levels of innovation and performance through a unified voice for leadership.

Rebecca speaks before thousands of leaders around the world every year, challenging conventional wisdom and overturning assumptions about how to lead in today's business environment. She has presented at major conferences, within organizations, and executive forums regarding her company's research and best practices for great leadership today.

“Rebecca Shambaugh spoke at the first meeting of the Leadership Council on Advancing Women at The Conference Board, her emphasis on inclusion, the leadership pipeline, uncovering latent biases, and the lack of women’s visibility and presence in upper levels of business made a real impact in the practical work of the senior executive women on the council. Rebecca provided the practical lessons learned from her 25 years of working with women leaders and generated a rich discussion.” — Program Manager, The Conference Board

“Rebecca’s talk was excellent, very informative and engaging. This was the best talk I’ve attended at IBM. Not only was it informative, but I will be utilizing Rebecca’s concepts in my career planning.” — Vice President, IBM

“It is always inspiring to hear from Rebecca Shambaugh, an influential, powerful women leader. I was particularly intrigued by the interactive exercises used within the presentation to promote self-awareness and personal branding. Rebecca’s engaging approach, personal stories, and exercises shared were incredibly helpful in identifying my own personal strengths in the workplace, which can be leveraged within my company for obtaining additional responsibilities in my current role. I hope to attend other presentations of Rebecca in the future”. — Director, Forté Foundation

Rebecca provides a roadmap for organizations that want to succeed based on her work with companies, leaders, and their teams on how they can create and leverage top leadership traits in a changing and dynamic workplace. She engages audiences in helping them find a winning strategy that drives greater levels of engagement, growth, and profitability while creating the most powerful competitive advantage on the innovation front. — Senior Vice President, General Electric

Marriott International thoroughly enjoyed and valued Rebecca Shambaugh engaging with our women leaders and executives in an inspiring keynote on Executive Presence. Rebecca demystified this important element of leadership based on her deep knowledge, experience, and practical tools that allowed the attendees to master their own executive presence and put words into action. It’s not every day that you can learn from an internationally recognized leadership expert. — Senior Vice President, Marriott International

Rebecca is the author of best-selling books and has been featured in major publications that illustrate her unconventional and results-focused approach to creating great leaders:
